ELEGANT VENEER NATURALLY BEAUTIFUL.

AN ELEGANT VENEER GIVES A PIECE OF FURNITURE ITS DISTINCTIVE CHARACTER. IT REFLECTS ITS UNIQUENESS, UNDERLINES THE CRAFTSMANSHIP AND STANDS FOR SUSTAINABLE MANUFACTURING. OUR RESPECT FOR NATURE IS ALSO MIRRORED IN THE WAY WE TREAT THE MOST VALUABLE PIECE OF THE TREE - THE PRECIOUS VENEER.

For our furniture production, we use the entire trunk and all of the wood always comes from sustainable sources. Which wood has grown well enough to turn into an attractive veneer? Experienced experts can already see when looking at the tree in the forest, whether it has the makings to provide first-class veneer.

Cut, steamed, ironed: The wood is peeled and – depending upon type of wood – first boiled in water or steamed, sometimes for several weeks. The temperature and duration of the process must be individually chosen using experience and intuition, there is no magic formula. This process changes the colour and makes the wood supple. The wet veneer sheets are then dried and “ironed” in one operation.

Whether rusty natural oak or elegant walnut – with veneer it comes down to the last millimetre. Meticulous cutting and the exact angle of the cut ensure the look of the finished veneer. The longitudinal cut produces parallel stripes, whilst the so-called flat cut results in a “flowery” image.

They dress the furniture: Whether homogenous in colour or clearly grained – as a “dress”, our veneer experts select the respective veneer so skilfully that the unique image of the veneer sheets delivers a balanced overall look on the furniture fronts across wardrobe doors and drawers.

Veneer is functional: In addition to its unique look and a natural feel, veneer has a further advantage: As the veneer is applied to a dimensionally stable base, the piece of furniture does not warp or crack. A good veneer is precious and must be used economically; it is sufficiently supple to be attached to curved shapes yet sturdy enough to form a resistant outer layer of a favourite piece of hülsta furniture. High-quality veneer is particularly durable for years and decades after it has been carefully finished by us – with elegant yet strong, environmentally friendly lacquers to achieve a beautiful, imperceptibly finished wood.
